Can You Solve The Tetris Cube In Time For Christmas?

For immediate release: December 15 2008

The Children's Hospital Foundations Australia and Australia's leading automotive retailer Supercheap Auto have partnered to help little lives shine at major children's hospitals across Australia this Christmas with (CHFA) the release of the Children's Hospital Foundations Australia Tetris Cube.

CHFA National Business Development Manager Melanie McKendry said: "Five major children's hospitals will benefit from the $10,000 that will be raised if the Tetris Cubes sell out and these include Royal Children's Hospital Foundation Queensland, Sydney Children's Hospital Foundation New South Wales, Royal Children's Hospital Foundation Victoria, Women & Children's Hospital Foundation South Australia and the Princess Margaret Hospital Foundation Western Australia."

Supercheap Auto Regional Operations Manager Terry Pelzer "The Tetris Cube is available exclusively at Supercheap Auto just in time for Christmas and is suitable for all ages. It consists of 12 pieces and they can be assembled to into 9,839 different solutions. It is completely addictive, yet deceptively simple and I am daring all Australians to find just one solution."

"The cube is $14.95 and is great Christmas stocking filler and will be available in store from early December and proceeds will support sick kids."

Supercheap Auto has partnered with children's charities raising vital funds for seriously ill children across the country. Over the last three years Supercheap Auto has sold more than 50,000 special edition charity games generating over $2 million. This unique Tetris cube will be the 11th game based fundraising.
